

FIFTY YEARS OF CLIMATE FEARMONGERING
LETTER TO THE EDITOR
EPOCH TIMES February 20-28, 2025

This letter should provide at least some relief for anyone suffering anxiety attacks triggered by political propaganda alleging a man-made climate crisis.

Please be assured that there is ample scientific evidence refuting the cultish belief in a CO₂-induced climate crisis and that such alarmism stems from flawed interpretations of defective climate models.

Furthermore, the fear of carbon dioxide ("CO₂") can be mitigated by recognizing that it is essential for life and that it is as important as water, oxygen, and sunlight in sustaining life on the planet. It is a vital part of the carbon life cycle!

We must be mindful of CO₂'s importance because natural processes have reduced bioavailable CO₂ to near starvation levels over the millennia. Unfortunately, our reserves of fossil fuels (coal, oil, and natural gas) are inadequate to restore the CO₂-rich ancient atmospheres.

At the same time, we must be wary of the unintended consequences of government policies. The disastrous consequences of climate-change policies are being clearly demonstrated by Germany's "green delusions" that have led to deindustrialization and serious economic decline. One might wonder if they are unintended.

Tragically, Western Civilization faces a self-imposed energy crisis while China, India, Russia, and other countries reject climate-change alarmism and continue to build nuclear and coal-fired power plants.

It is crucial for politicians and the media to engage in open and honest discussions about these disastrous climate-change policies that are based on nothing more than a cultish-like pseudoscience.

Astonishingly, the climate hysteria began 50 years ago, starting with the "global cooling" scare of the 1970s, which morphed into "global warming" during the 1980s and "climate change/climate crisis" in the 21st century.

An example of recent hysteria is the UN's threat of "boiling", rising oceans, which would have necessarily resulted in a glut of cheap, ocean-front properties flooding the real estate market. This is not happening!

Obviously, the West is in dire need of new leaders.
