

Jesse Watters' Primetime on Fox News

October 18, 2022

[This segment was removed from the full episode that was on YouTube, so I recorded it from my TV and used HappyScribe to transcribe the article.]

Fox News Channel. America is watching.

Jesse Watters: Comedians warned us this would happen.

[A clip of George Carlin from HBO's A Life Worth Losing]

George Carlin: The politicians are put there to give you the idea that you have freedom of choice. You don't.

You have no choice. You have owners. They own you.

They own everything. They own all the important land. They own and control the corporations they've long since bought and paid for the Senate, the Congress, the state houses, the city halls. They got the judges in their back pocket.

Jesse Watters: If only we'd listened to Carlin. Instead, we surrendered. We submitted. We did what powerful people wanted us to do. And then the pandemic came and we had to follow even more crazy rules. And it's still happening.

Jesse Watters: Over the weekend at Rice University in Texas, the school held a vaccine symposium.

That sounds fun. And it got a little crazy.

[A clip of the symposium taken by @predatorpoachers]

Man calling out Pfizer: Ma'am, I have a question. So Pfizer has the biggest criminal fine in history. So how is it anti science to not trust them if they're on record bribing positions and fudging test results? $2.3 billion fine. So how is it anti science to simply question them? Can you explain that, please?

Symposium Speaker: So, I appreciate your comment. I'd like to finish my presentation, and you can hold your questions to the end.

Man calling out Pfizer: I mean it's not going to be answered. I have four questions. I have four questions. What the heck buddy?

Somebody in the audience: Oh my God.

[The Man calling out Pfizer was told to sit down and attacked by a twerp in a brown suit jacket. He pushed the twerp away.]

Jesse Watters: Jim Breuer is a comedian. He's got a new special out, "Somebody Had to Say It" and it's streaming on YouTube today. So would you ever try to pick a fight with a guy that looked like that? Breuer?

Jim Breuer: No, not at all. He looks completely harmless. I'm not going to lie to you. If he's sitting across from me in the bar and he starts chirping, I'm not worried about that guy. I'm not worried about that guy.

Jesse Watters: Well, you can't even say anything anymore. It was a legit question. Maybe it was kind of rude to interrupt, but if you're supposed to just do what these companies tell you to do, and these companies have been fined out the Gazoo for breaking the law and lying about stuff, doesn't that make sense?

Jim Breuer: I really think the company should come out smoking a cigarette and just going, yeah, no, we tested nothing. So? Yeah, we've killed some people in the past and we bribed others. I'm sorry, does that bother you? Proceed. Get the shot. What's the problem? Yeah, we patented this before it came out. So? So what? Go back to your business. Worry about the next pro. La this. Get in the circus and shut your mouth. Isn't there a ball game on?

Jesse Watters: You'd almost respect them more if they said it like that, because that's probably how they feel. We rushed it out. We wanted to get paid. It saved a few lives. Other people, maybe not. But you know what? Life goes on.

Jim Breuer: I'd have more respect if they said, listen, when it comes to side effects and lying to you, the good outweighs the bad, we're going to kill and hurt a lot of people. But you know what? We're going to make trillions. It's a little for you. Little for you. I'm sorry. Does that bother you? Yeah. Well, your kids got ADHD.

That's Okay. We got something for your kid, too. Ahhhh! I'm waiting for the horns and the thing to come out.

Jesse Watters: I'm going to assume you did not get vaxxed.

Jim Breuer: No. Good God, no. Let me look at the odds. Hey, what happens if I get it (the virus)? Well, most likely 99.9% You're going to survive.

Okay. What if I get it (the vaccine)? Oh, I don't know. Oh, gee. Which should I take? I'm sorry, but I don't live in fear. And maybe I should sometimes. But you know common sense. God gave me common sense. Science is very easily paid off.

Jesse Watters: Well, I don't know what happened out there in Alaska. I don't know if that's science. They shut down the snow crabs. I'm going to go hungry this winter.

Jim Breuer: You know what it is? I'll tell you what it is. It's the ozone layer. I'm sorry. It's the new ice age. No, I'm sorry it's the aerosols. No, I'm sorry, it's global warming. Oh, wait, I'm sorry. Climate change. My bad. [Jim Breuer forgot about Y2K and acid rain.]

Jesse Watters: All right.

Jim Breuer: Every ten years we change. Sorry about that.

Jesse Watters: Jim Breuer. Check out his YouTube show.

Jim Breuer: No crabs

Jesse Watters: We're crabless this winter.

Jim Breuer: No Lobsters. No fish, We are out.

Jesse Watters: The Chinese will catch them. The Chinese and the Russians will catch them.

Jim Breuer: Everyone Take the rods out of the water. We're shutting this down. Shut your mouth. Don't ask questions. We're the government. Aahhhh!

Jesse Watters: Have a great weekend. I'll talk to you later, Breuer.

Jim Breuer: You, too. Take care Jesse.

Jesse Watters: Let's do some text messages. We got Mikey from Huntington Beach, California.

Mikey from Huntington Beach, California.

Jesse, great opening tonight. I've been waiting and waiting for Republicans to push back hard. Well said.

Jesse Watters: I've been waiting, too. That's about damn time.

Glenn from Warren, Rhode Island.

Jesse, you should have played no More Mr. Nice Guy by Alice Cooper during the Republicans Fight Back.

Jesse Watters: Should we start playing music under the monologue? Something to think about. Allie [the producer in Jesse's ear piece] is saying no.

Charles

Charles says the president has assured us everything's okay. My wife and I agree as we figured a way around the inflation effects on our retirement savings. We just have to die eight years earlier than planned. See? It works.

Jesse Watters: That's right. Just drop some fentanyl. Be fine. Math.

Rae from Colorado.

Jesse you know what? I blame the people going to the drag events with the children.

Jesse Watters: We're actually going to have one of the dragsters on to explain why he or she is doing this in front of children. Because we can't put our fingers years on it and we need to hear it from a dragster. That's it for us tonight. DVR the show. Tucker Carlson is up next.

And always remember, I'm Watters, and this is my world.
